Be up-to-date on Early Intervention best practices to support EI families!

The New York City Department of Health, Division of Family and Child Health, Bureau of Early Intervention has launched a learning management system (LMS) to offer free professional development trainings on-line.

These trainings bear continuing education units (CEUs) for professionals in many disciplines. The New York City Bureau of Early Intervention (NYC BEI) is approved by the New York State Education Department, Office of the Professions for provision of CEUs to the following professionals:

- Physical therapists and PTAs
- Occupational therapists and OTAs
- Speech-language pathologists and audiologists
- Social workers (LCSW and LMSW)

NYC BEI is currently in the process of applying for continuing education units for teachers (CTLEs).

Completion of these professional development trainings may also be used toward the ten (10) hours of training required annually as per the New York State Department of Health Bureau of Early Intervention Provider Agreement.

To participate in the NYC BEI's professional development trainings, each participant must register in the LMS and create a profile. The information entered in the profile will inform the certificate created at the completion of each training, therefore, your profile must be accurate and complete. For example, the name on your profile should match your name on your professional license or certification. To receive a certificate with CEUs for each training, each registrant must complete the pre- and post-tests, all training modules, any module quizzes, and the training evaluation survey (as required by the New York State Office of the Professions).

The first training on the LMS will be the five Implementing Family-Centered Best Practices modules, which provide nine (9) contact hours or CEUs. More NYC BEI trainings will be posted on the LMS in 2019-2021 to support quality intervention services and evaluations.

To access the on-line trainings, go to the NYC Early Intervention website page for Professional Development and Trainings at <https://www1.nyc.gov/site/doh/providers/resources/early-intervention-professional-development-and-trainings.page>

The New York City Early Intervention Program's website has been updated to be more parent-friendly and both mobile- and tablet-compatible. It contains new resources that support both families and providers (<http://www1.nyc.gov/site/doh/health/health-topics/early-intervention.page>).

Step 4: Access your certificate of completion: After you have completed all components of each training, your certificate with CEUs will become available on your home page under “Completed Training”.

The screenshot shows the NYC Health training portal. The top navigation bar includes links for Home, Current Training, Transcript, Catalog, and a Search Catalog field. The main content area is divided into several sections:

- Current Training: A section with a "Find More Training" button and a table showing no records found.
- Completed Training: A section highlighted with a red arrow. It contains a "Recently Completed" table with the following data:

Title	Type	Status	Score	Action
Implementing Family-Centered Best Practices Training Modules	Curriculum	Completed		View Certificate
Module Course Evaluation: Implementing Family-Centered Best Practices Training Modules	Online	Completed
Post-Test: Implementing Family Centered Best Practices Training Modules	Online	Completed	30.00
Module 5: Coaching Parents and Caregivers	Online	Completed	100.00

The "View Certificate" button for the first module is highlighted with a red arrow. Other sections on the right include Curriculums (Completed: 1, Started: 0), FAQs (How do I access a training?, Where can I find my certificate?), and a Search Catalog field.

 To secure a certificate of completion, each participant is required to complete all components of each training. This is a requirement by the New York State Office of the Professions for contact hours and CEUs. You will not receive a certificate and CEUs if any component is skipped during the training**
